First Grade

In first grade we have been very busy and we have seen a lot of growth this year. The majority of students have made a lot of progress and have shown this with the middle of the year tests in reading and math. We are very excited to see how much more they will continue to learn and become great readers and learners for the future. We have been learning about Martin Luther King Jr., arctic animals, and the water cycle. These amazing first graders are now writing complete stories with a topic, beginning, middle and end. We just celebrated the 100th day of school counting patterns, solving story problems, making 100 year old portraits of ourselves, and writing about life when we are 100 years old!

Principal's Message

Family Engagement is vital to our school success. Nightly discussions about school experiences are important for growth and connections. School discussions involve family, community and peer involvement as well. Reading, writing, listening and speaking are activities that happen and require support in and out of the classroom. Family engagement in school contributes to positive student outcomes, including improved child and student achievement, decreased disciplinary issues, improved parent-teacher and teacher-student relationships, and improved school environment. Stay involved!
